Internship at Corporate Technology
Princeton, New Jersey, USA

SIEMENS

We at Siemens Corporate Research USA located in Princeton NJ are looking for talented and passionate students in computer science or related fields for internships of 6 months or longer.
You will actively participate in web development and user interface implementation activities of large scale reasoning and analytics systems for industrial and medical applications such as:
- Expert systems for service and maintenance
- Medical decision support systems
- Traffic optimization
- Collaboration platforms

We require excellent development skills in frontent / web 2.0 technologies including but not limited to: Javascript, Ajax, GWT, jQuery. Experience in object oriented programming using Java programming is required. General knowledge about how distributed applications operate is required. Ruby on Rails, PHP or Python are a plus. The compensation includes a monthly stipend and a rental car for the time of the internship period. At Siemens you will find a big community of international interns.

Start date: Immediate

If interested please send your resume and cover letter to ken.hampel@siemens.com - subject: Internship 2011

Siemens Corporate Research (SCR), in Princeton, New Jersey, is the U.S. laboratory of Siemens AG's Corporate Technology organization. Scientists and engineers from many countries and diverse cultural background come together to form a unique research team with expertise that is highly respected throughout the company and in the research community in general.

For further information see http://www.usa.siemens.com/en/about_us/research.htm